Police officers and newly promoted sergeants in law enforcement agencies frequently are unprepared for their roles as leaders/supervisors. In this course of instruction, officers will be given easy to understand leadership concepts, which will enable them to become an effective supervisor in the field.

You've been sworn in as a first level sergeant, now what?

Often new patrol supervisors are unfamiliar with expectations and how to attain their goals within the department. This course will offer guidance and tools for self-development as a new supervisor. Effective leaders affect positive change in their teams and departments.

Please bring a book that you are currently reading and be prepared to discuss why they are reading it as part of leadership.

What Students Will Learn:

- What it takes to be an effective supervisor
- Using Adult Learning for self-knowledge and team training
- Applying learned concepts to leadership; How do you take charge?
- Utilizing management tool
- Evaluation
- Dealing with being passed over
- Understanding liability issues
